

AGILE LEADERSHIP

EFFECTIVE LEADERSHIP IN OUR CONSTANTLY CHANGING WORLD

Synopsis

Ever wondered why some leaders are so much more effective than others? What do they do that makes them so much more effective?

Most importantly, how do they do it?

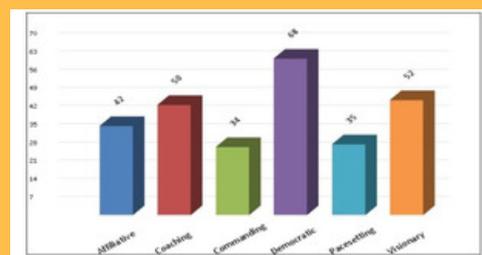

Extensive research done by Dr. Daniel Goleman, an internationally known psychologist, visiting professor to Harvard University and author of the international best-selling books Primal Leadership and Emotional Intelligence, suggests that the most effective leaders are those who use a collection of distinct leadership styles — each in the right measure, at just the right time.

But what are those leadership styles? And how do you know what styles you use most often? How much of each style do you currently use on a daily basis? Which styles should you use less in order to be more effective?

Most importantly, how do your current styles affect the performance of your team?
